EDITORIAL COMMENT

Call 449 if you fail to get the Kentuckian promptly. And if you have a news item, phone it to the same number.

CALL 449 WHEN YOU HAVE NEWS FROM FRANCE.

Under a new ruling of the War Department, there will no longer be issued from Washington lists of the dead and wounded among our boys in France. The Department will, however, continue to telegraph relatives of the fate of their kindred.

When you get such a message from the War Department, please telephone 449 and ask for the editor. The Kentuckian will undertake to inform the community of the sad news.

Madisonville is making a big pull to get the Weis Cigar factory.

The eight-hour day bill was tabled in the House a day or two ago.

First Lieut. William C. Dabney, son of Dr. S. G. Dabney, of Louisville, has been wounded in action.

A regiment of Jews is being recruited in Cleveland for fighting in Palestine.

Moscow has again been temporarily made the official capital of Russia. A trip to Moscow was the biggest mistake ever made by Napoleon Bonaparte.

It is inferred from several significant statements given out within the last few days, that the Huns have offered peace terms to the British and that they had been turned down.

A girl who applied for a license to be married in Henderson was just five days too young and the would-be groom was told that the young lady would have to wait a week.

The acceptance of the peace offered to Russia on the hard terms offered by Germany was upon the anniversary of the Czar's abdication.

Winchester is again playing in hard luck. Following close on the heels of the theatre disaster, in which a dozen lives were lost, comes a $75,000 fire in a lumber plant, of unknown origin.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian, Mr. Charles M. Meacham's paper, is now appearing as a morning daily, seven-column four-page form, and being served its readers as part of their fast menu. It is needless to say it is palatable, as it is well edited and newsworthy.—Guthrie Progress.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian that has been issued three times a week has been changed to a morning daily, and brim full of news. The enthusiasm with which the new daily has been received bespeaks its success. Charlie Meacham, veteran newspaper man, one of the brightest and cleanest anywhere, continues in charge.—Cynthiana Democrat.

One American woman was killed and an American man and woman were wounded in Monday's enemy air raid over Paris. Miss Wanda Caroline Martin, 32, of Rockville Centre, L. I. was one of six persons killed in a hospital which was struck by a bomb. She was a Y. M. C. A. canteen worker. Mrs. W. B. Phillips and Mr. Salzer were wounded.

WILL GORE ILL

Mr. W. L. Gore left for Hattiesburg last night in response to a telegram notifying him of the serious illness of his son, Will Gore, who is a soldier at Camp Shelby. He was a volunteer in the old Company D.

PRESIDENT TO PREPARE A STATEMENT

CONFERENCE OF ROAD EXPERTS

Arranged For Wednesday at 10:30 O'Clock At the Court House.

NATIONAL EXPERT COMING

Meeting of Road Commission, Fiscal Court and Engineers—Public Invited.

A conference will be held next Wednesday March 20 at 10:30 a. m. at the Court House of importance to every man, woman and child in Christian county and should arouse the interest of every man to the point of attending if possible.

The discussion will center upon the road question as it concerns and interests most vitally the people of Christian county. The subject in general will be discussed but the main object of the meeting is to consider the road situation in Christian county.

Several experts and officials will be here. Among them will be Mr. Brooks, Federal Highway Engineer; Rodman Wiley, State Commissioner of Public Roads; and Engineers Canning, Heath, and Sneed. Several local engineers and inspectors will likely be in attendance also.

These experts and officials will discuss the road question with the Fiscal Court and County Road Commissioners and the public generally is invited and urged to be present and join in the discussions. Attend this meeting and familiarize yourself with the most vital subject.

WIFE TESTIFIES

ON SIDE OF MAN FROM WHOM SEPARATED—$10,000 PRAYED FOR.

Practically the entire session of court yesterday was consumed with the trial of the suit of Dr. D. H. Erkiletian vs. Dr. M. W. Rozzell. Dr. Erkiletian is suing Dr. Rozzell for alienation of his wife's affections, alleging that the defendant sought an advantage in a real estate deal and sought to bring about the separation of the plaintiff and his wife, thereby gaining the advantage desired.

This suit is for $10,000 and is being hard fought. The first witness was introduced Saturday afternoon, consequently the hearing of testimony has not progressed very far. One of the witnesses testifying on the plaintiff's side is the wife who has been separated from him for two or three years.

The trial will probably last throughout Monday and may run over into Tuesday.

WHITMAN TO RETIRE

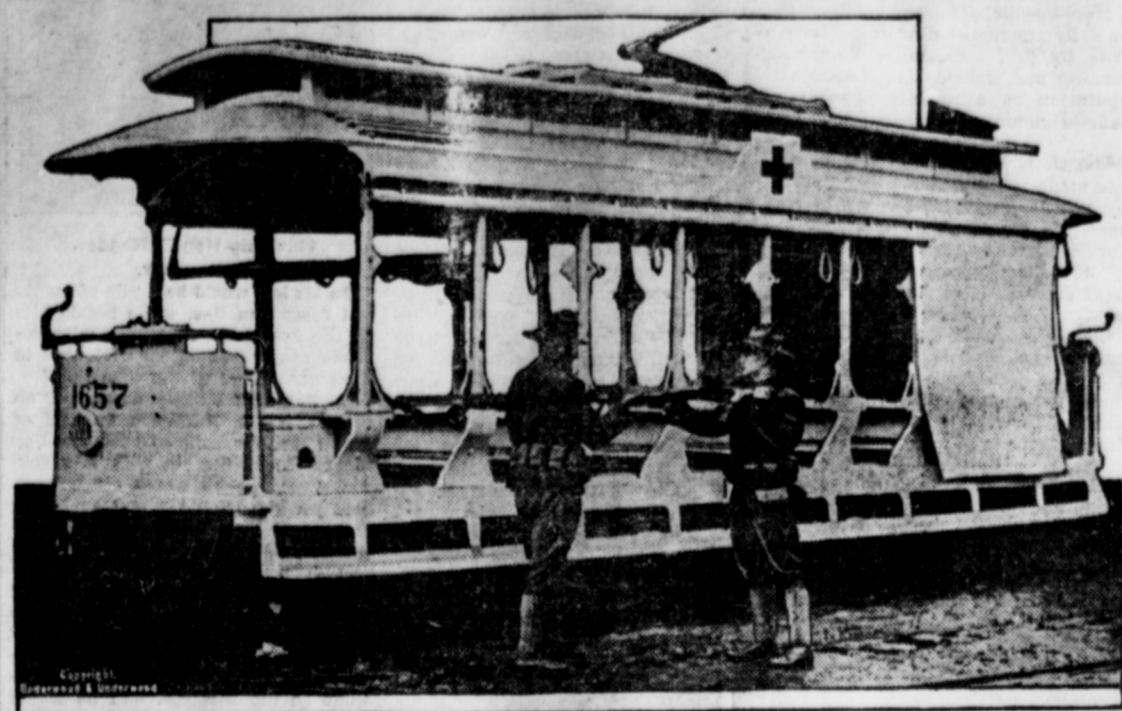

(By International News Service.)
New York, March 16.—Governor Whitman has definitely declined to accept a re-nomination for third term. He also persuaded the entire Republican state ticket to accept re-nominations, according to an announcement made this afternoon.

CASUALTY LIST

(By International News Service.)
Washington, March 16.—A casualty list containing the names of 85 soldiers killed and wounded was issued by the War Department late this afternoon. Eight were killed in action, two died of wounds, six died from accidents, ten died from disease one died from unknown cause and 58 were slightly wounded.

At Connellsville, Pa., there will be a short crop of maple syrup because cans are not to be had.

FIRST RED CROSS TROLLEY HOSPITAL COMPLETED

The first trolley hospital is completed and should serve as a model to those that will undoubtedly be used in many cities for the moving of wounded soldiers from ports of arrival to neighboring hospitals. It was designed by Superintendent John Lindell of the Boston Elevated railroad at the suggestion of Brig. Gen. John A. Johnston, commandant of the Northwestern department.

MRS. HIRSCH CONVICTED

SOCIETY WOMEN AND RED CROSS WORKER GETS JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE.

(By International News Service.)
Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—Mrs. Margaret A. Hirsch, prominent in social circles and as a Red Cross worker, was convicted this afternoon of attempting to blackmail Asa P. Candler, the millionaire Mayor of Atlanta. The jury deliberated only 26 minutes before reaching a verdict. The court imposed a sentence of twelve months in jail and $1,000 fine.

Mrs. Hirsch received the sentence without a tremor and without comment. Attorneys for the defense served notice of an appeal. Her bail was fixed at $3,000. If compelled to serve her sentence Mrs. Hirsch will be sent to Milledgeville prison farm. Mrs. Hirsch was indicted with J. W. Cook, convicted last week, of trying to blackmail Mayor Candler by demanding $500,000 as the price of silence concerning the Mayor's alleged relations with Mrs. Hirsch.

FIFTY-THREE DOLLARS

TAKEN IN FOR RED CROSS BY CHURCH HILL AUXILIARY.

The entertainment given at the Church Hill Grange Friday night by the Church Hill Red Cross Auxiliary was a success in every way. The program was exceedingly interesting and consisted of several numbers sung by the Newstead High School chorus, and a play which was a burlesque upon The Sewing Circle. A packed house listened intently to songs, drills, recitations, and the play. The receipts amounted to $53, which goes into the coffers of the local Red Cross Auxiliary.

H. E. ALLEN

NINTH STREET CONFECTIONER WAS BURIED YESTERDAY MORNING.

H. E. Allen, the confectioner on Ninth street, died Friday morning at the Jennie Stuart Hospital, where he had been for some time. He was 40 years of age and was a member of the Episcopal church.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the church, conducted by Dr. G. C. Abbott. Interment followed in Riverside Cemetery.
Mr. Allen is survived by his wife and one son.

TWO AVIATORS FALL TO DEATH

WHEN AN AIRPLANE CAME DOWN AT FT. WORTH, TEXAS.

(By International News Service.)
Fort Worth, Texas, March 16.—Lieut. Harold Andrew, of New York, and Cadet Joseph Lanagan, of Dallas, Texas, were killed at Hicks field this afternoon when an American airplane fell.

HOUSE BREAKER

WAS HUNGRY AND WANTED MEAT ONLY IT SEEMS.

Friday night a thief entered the meat shop of N. Stadelman on East Ninth street, locked the iron safe which Mr. Stadelman had carelessly left unlocked, steered shy of the cash register, and lifted a few packages of meat ready wrapped for early delivery. He did not disturb anything else but quietly made his exit as he came, which was through the rear door.

Hezen Kelly of the Syracuse university unit has the distinction of being the champion hand grenade thrower among the American troops in France. Young Kelly's good right arm will probably account for many Huns when his unit enters the trenches. He has made grenades a special study.

MEET AFTER 21 YEARS

OFFICER IN U. S. ARMY MEETS OLD SWEETHEART AND THEY ARE MARRIED.

Dr. C. M. Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist church, had the pleasure yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock of joining in marriage Lieut. Ross A. Griggs and Miss Nellie Boster.

Lieut. Griggs' home is in Harper's Ferry, Va., but he is now in training at Camp Forrest, Ga., and was granted a short furlough for the purpose of getting married. The bride lives in Little Rock, Ark., but agreed to meet her lover here in order to be married.

The groom registered his age at 38 and the bride at 37. According to the best information obtainable these parties were sweethearts during their young days and had not seen each other for twenty-one years. Just why they selected this point for a meeting place was not learned, but that is not important. They met and were married, and have gone on their way rejoicing.

DEEDS RECORDED.

J. R. Harrison and wife to S. H. King. Tract of land 6 miles from Hopkinsville on Kirkmansville pike. Consideration $3,500.

SWEETHEART'S INITIALS NOW APPEAR ON HOSE.

(By International News Service.)
Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—Wearing initials of their soldier sweethearts on their silken hose is the latest fad among Los Angeles movie stars. The only drawback to the new fashion is caused by complications arising when two girl friends displaying initials of the same soldier chancing to meet.

DEALING WITH U.S. ATTITUDE AS TO JAPAN

Washington, March 16.—President Wilson is understood to be preparing a statement for the world at large, which will emphasize his announced policy of support and sympathy for the Russian people. It is believed the opportunity will be accepted to define the attitude of the United States towards the suggested plan of the enemy powers to have Japan send an expedition into Asiatic Russia. The most definite statement obtainable concerning this policy was that there had not been the slightest change in the views of the United States as made known formally to Japan some days ago.

It is believed he will restate his unwillingness to agree to any plan of intervention which is unaccompanied by a statement guaranteeing non-territorial ambition on the part of Japan.

POLICE AS AVIATORS

(By International News Service.)
New York, March 16.—Aeroplane corps are to be added to the police reserve force, according to an announcement today. Flyers will be used to protect the city in case an air raid is made.

TABOO ON GERMAN

(By International News Service.)
Denver, Col., March 16.—The German language was ruled out of the Denver public schools today by order of Superintendent Coal. All German text books were ordered placed in storage.

FOR IRELAND

(By International News Service.)
Washington, March 16.—Self determination as to their political future was proposed for the people of Ireland in a joint resolution introduced late today by Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire.

FALLS FROM FENCE.

Little Mack Witherspoon happened to get a serious fall yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock while attempting to get over a picket fence. The boy climbed on top of the fence with his feet between two palings and in attempting to jump to the ground his foot hung and he fell head forward to the ground, his shoulder striking first. The ankle of his right foot was badly wrenched and the physician has not been able to determine if any bones are broken. The boy was suffering agonies last night. Dr. Thomas attended him.

DIED AT NEW YORK.

Samuel H. Greenwood, jeweler at Blakey, Bass & Barnett's jewelry store, received a message at 2 o'clock yesterday morning notifying him of the death of his father in Jamestown, N. Y. He was about 76 years of age and death resulted from heart failure.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood left at six o'clock last night for Jamestown, and will not return for about ten days.

CENTENARIAN DIES.

(By International News Service.)
Leominster, Mass., March 16.—Joseph Bashaw died at his home on Ballard Hill aged 102 years, 11 months and 29 days. He was the oldest man in this part of the State. He left eight children, thirty-eight grandchildren and twenty-five great-grandchildren.

The so-called daylight saving bill was amended in the House and must go back to the Senate before it becomes a law. It provides for moving clocks up one hour on March 31 for a period of seven months. The object is to have the day's business begin an hour earlier and close an hour earlier. It is to apply to all Government works, including the running of railroad trains. For instance the trains under present schedules will leave an hour earlier.

"Turn a Deaf Ear."
To be able to hear well is a great blessing, but one should be able to "turn a deaf ear" to what is unwise or unfit to hear. If the angry words that stir up strife, or the harsh, critical words that hurt one's feelings, or the false flattery, never found listeners, how much less pain and trouble the world would know. Learn to use the "hearing ear" and the "deaf ear" upon the right occasions. Rich.

"Over the Top"

By An American Soldier
Who Went
ARTHUR GUY EMPEY
Machine Gunner Serving in France

(Copyright, 1917, by Arthur Guy Empey)

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Fired by the news of the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine, Arthur Guy Empey, an American, leaves his office in Jersey City and goes to England where he enlists in the British army.

CHAPTER II—After a period of training, Empey volunteers for immediate service and soon finds himself in rest billets "somewhere in France," where he first makes the acquaintance of the ever-present "Tommy."

CHAPTER III—Empey attends his first church services at the front while a German Fokker circles over the congregation.

CHAPTER IV—Empey's command goes into the front-line trenches and is under fire for the first time.

CHAPTER V—Empey learns to adopt the motto of the British Tommy, "If you are going to get it, you'll get it, so never worry."

CHAPTER VI—Back in rest billets, Empey gets his first experience as a mess orderly.

CHAPTER VII—Empey learns how the British soldiers are fed.

CHAPTER VIII—Back in the front-line trench, Empey sees his first friend of the trenches, "Go West."

CHAPTER IX—Empey makes his first visit to a dugout in "Suicide Ditch."

CHAPTER X—Empey learns what constitutes a "day's work" in the front-line trench.

CHAPTER XI—Empey goes "over the top" for the first time in a charge on the German trenches and is wounded by a bayonet thrust.

CHAPTER XII.Bombing.

The boys in the section welcomed me, but there were many strange faces. Several of our men had gone West in that charge, and were lying "somewhere in France" with a little wooden cross at their heads. We were in rest billets. The next day our captain asked for volunteers for bombers' school. I gave my name and was accepted. I had joined the Suicide club and my troubles commenced. Thirty-two men of the battalion, including myself, were sent to L—, where we went through a course in bombing.

Here we were instructed in the uses, methods of throwing and manufacture of various kinds of hand grenades, from the old "jam tin," now obsolete, to the present Mills bomb, the standard of the British army.

It all depends where you are as to what you are called. In France they call you a "bomber" and give you medals, while in neutral countries they call you an anarchist and give you "life."

From the very start the Germans were well equipped with effective bombs and trained bomb throwers, but the English army was as little prepared in this important department or fighting as in many others. At bombing school an old sergeant of the Grenadier guards, whom I had the good fortune to meet, told me of the discouragements this branch of the service suffered before they could meet the Germans on an equal footing. (Pacifists and small army people in the U. S. please read with care.) The first English expeditionary forces had no bombs at all, but had clicked a lot of casualties from those thrown by the Boches. One bright morning someone higher up had an idea and issued an order detailing two men from each

WHAT THE PRESS BOYS SAY

It's the Hopkinsville DAILY Kentuckian now, and a bright, newsy, sheet and deserves the support of every Christian county citizen.—Calhoun Star.

The Daily Kentuckian, published at Hopkinsville, the latest addition to the daily newspaper field in Kentucky made its first appearance Saturday morning and upheld Mr. Meacham's reputation as a capable newspaper man.—Henderson Gleaner.

The Daily Kentuckian of Hopkinsville made its appearance last Saturday morning. It is an attractive sheet, well-gotten up and just as a brilliant writer like Charley Meacham would be expected to publish.—Cadiz Record.

Charlie Meacham's new Daily Kentuckian has reached our desk; and is a good one too, as we knew it would be when Meacham is at the head. Congratulations!—Calloway Times.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian has changed from a Thrice-a-Week to a daily. The Kentuckian is an old paper and a good one, and we hope Bro. Meacham will have forty years more of success.—La Center Advance.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian appeared Saturday as a daily, issued mornings. It is a very creditable edition and shows that Editor Meacham, despite his extreme age, is still alert at the newspaper game.—Madisonville Messenger.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian is now a morning paper, having made its first appearance as such last Saturday. It is a seven-column in size and ranks well up toward the top with the smaller-town dailies of the State.—Lewisburg Leader.

The first issue of the Hopkinsville Daily Kentuckian appeared Saturday morning. It is bright, newsy and attractive, and we wish Editor-proprietor Meacham even greater success than crowned his efforts in the publication of a tri-weekly.—Elkton Times.

The Kentuckian of Hopkinsville, Ky., has been changed to a daily and is putting on airs about it. It is a splendid paper, and the business people of Hopkinsville, the city that has its first care, should see to it that it has a liberal share of advertising and the unanimous support of every friend of the city.—Dover Courier.

The Sun office has received the initial issue of The Hopkinsville Daily Kentuckian, which is a morning paper. It is a very creditable edition. Mr. Chas. M. Meacham has long been recognized as one of the best newspaper men in the state. He has controlled the destinies of The Kentuckian for thirty-nine years and his vigor as a writer and booster for his town is undiminished.—Morganfield Sun.

The Hustler office is in receipt of initial number of the long promised and much wished for Daily (Hopkinsville) Kentuckian, which made its appearance Saturday morning. The public expected much of this enterprise and is not disappointed in the result. We do not have to be much of a prophet when we predict that the Daily Kentuckian will be a continued success. There are both brains and money back of the undertaking.—Madisonville Hustler.

The initial issue of the Daily Hopkinsville Kentuckian appeared Saturday morning. The paper will be issued every morning except Monday in the future. The first issue was well filled with local, state and national news, a special wire news service having been provided. The advertising columns are also well filled, evidencing the interest of the business establishments in the new daily. The Journal extends sincere good wishes for the success of the Daily Kentuckian.—Pembroke Journal.

The Hopkinsville Daily Kentuckian made its appearance Saturday morning a bright, attractive and readable six column eight page paper that looks like it had "come to stay." It has the International Press report, is well edited, plainly printed and well filled with ads. Mr. Meacham the editor and owner is one of the most competent and well known newspaper men in the State and that his daily like his tri-weekly will succeed is beyond question.—Bowling Green News.

Volume, 1, Number 1 of the new Hopkinsville daily has reached us. It has been said "once a Kentuckian, always a Kentuckian" therefore we conclude the daily, without change of name, will have a long, and we hope successful career. Brother Meacham your daily is a credit to you, and those associated with you in the work; it is a big thing for Hopkinsville and we trust the Daily Kentuckian may get all the support it so justly merits.—Uniontown Telegram.

The Hopkinsville Kentuckian, which has been published as a tri-weekly, now appears as a morning daily, brimful of local news and the news of the world. Judging by the large array of attractive advertisements in the first number, which was issued Saturday, the new daily is appreciated by the merchants of Hopkinsville. Col. Chas. M. Meacham, the editor, has long been recognized as one of the best newspaper men in the State. He has controlled the destinies of the Kentuckian for thirty-five years and his vigor as a writer and booster for his town is undiminished.—Providence Enterprise.

platoon to go to bombing school to learn the duties of a bomber and how to manufacture bombs. Noncommissioned officers were generally selected for this course. After about two weeks at school they returned to their units in rest billets or in the fire trench, as the case might be, and got busy teaching their platoons how to make "jam tins."

Previously an order had been issued for all ranks to save empty jam tins for the manufacture of bombs. A professor of bombing would sit on the fire step in the front trench with the remainder of his section crowding around to see him work.

On his left would be a pile of empty and rusty jam tins, while beside him on the fire step would be a miscellaneous assortment of material used in the manufacture of the "jam tins."

Tommy would stoop down, get an empty "jam tin," take a handful of clay mud from the parapet, and line the inside of the tin with this substance. Then he would reach over, pick up his detonator and explosive, and insert them in the tin, fuse protruding. On the fire step would be a pile of fragments of shell, shrapnel balls, bits of iron, nails, etc.—anything that was hard enough to send over to Fritz; he would scoop up a handful of this junk and put it in the bomb. Perhaps one of the platoon would ask him what he did this for, and he would explain that when the bomb exploded these bits would fly about and kill or wound any German hit by same; the questioner would immediately pull a button off his tunic and hand it to the bomb maker with, "Well, blame me, send this over as a souvenir" or another Tommy would volunteer an old rusty and broken jack-knife; both would be accepted and inserted.

Then the professor would take another handful of mud and fill the tin, after which he would punch a hole in the lid of the tin and put it over the top of the bomb, the fuse sticking out. Then perhaps he would tightly wrap wire around the outside of the tin, and the bomb was ready to send over to

FRITZ with Tommy's compliments. A piece of wood about four inches wide had been issued. This was to be strapped on the left forearm by means of two leather straps and was like the side of a match box; it was called a "striker." There was a tip like the head of a match on the fuse of the bomb. To ignite the fuse, you had to rub it on the "striker," just the same as striking a match. The fuse was timed to five seconds or longer. Some of the fuses issued in those days would burn down in a second or two, while others would "size" for a week before exploding. Back in Blighty the munition workers weren't quite up to snuff.

FLY.

Fly Extermination Committee,
Mrs. W. R. Wheeler, Chairman.

This is the catchword of the fly, he is small but he is sly, hunt out his haunts, exterminate or he will conquer sure as fate.

1. Where does the fly live? In all kinds of filth and he carries all kinds of filth on his wings.

3. Where does the fly go when he leaves his filthy breeding places? He goes into the kitchen, the dining room and the store.

4. What does the fly do there? He walks on the bread, fruit, and vegetables; he wipes his feet on the butter and he bathes in the milk.

5. Does the fly visit patients sick with the consumption, typhoid fever and cholera infantum? He does and he may call on you next carrying the infection of these diseases on his brush-like feet.

8. How can the fly be prevented? Typhoid fever, consumption, diarrheal disease, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and in fact any communicable disease.

8. How can he fly be prevented? By cleaning out the stable and scattering the manure weekly; by destroying all filth about the premises, screen all refuse not carried away; burn or bury all waste matter; destroy all garbage; screen your house.

CHRISTIAN IS PROSPEROUS.

Christian county, Kentucky, has long been known as one of the large and prosperous counties of the western portion of the State. The farmers have been large growers of tobacco, corn, wheat and hay. For this reason a letter was sent to A. H. Eckles, President of the Planters' Bank & Trust Company, of Hopkinsville, Ky., to learn just how prosperous the farmers of Christian county were after receiving the splendid prices paid for their 1917 crop. Wine is an important part of the daily rations served to the French soldiers. The above photograph shows soldiers filling barrels from the tank car which has just arrived from the wine regions in southern France. The barrels of wine are then sent forward to the men in the trenches.

Eckles wrote in part as follows:

"It is a matter of common information that the farmers in the western part of Kentucky, after marketing their tobacco will have more money than they have ever had before, in view of the high prices and also in view of the large corn crop which we had in this section, and which is now selling from $9.50 to $10 a barrel (one barrel of corn is five bushels).—Courier-Journal.

THE APRIL WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION.

Holworthy Hall has the first half of a fine novel in the April Woman's

In "The Veil," Maude Radford Warren has written of the faith in communication between the living and the dead that the war has brought to many people. An account of how a small town made the country's record Liberty Loan subscription, a practical article on the motion picture in the schools, and a "mere man's" clever comments on feminism add to the excellence of this number.

A DIAMOND EXPERT.

FRED WALLACE

The selection of Mr. Frederick A. Wallis, the New York Manager of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company, for the position of Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner of New York City, has called forth universal commendation. This civic recognition of one of the foremost life insurance men of the city and his appointment to so responsible a position in the municipal service argues well for the discernment and the policy of the new city administration.

The life of Frederick A. Wallis is a brilliant illustration of the successful career open to a man of character and ambition in this country. Among a host of prominent New York insurance officials he readily ranks with the leaders whose achievements place them at the head of the list.

Born in Kentucky forty-eight years ago, Mr. Wallis resigned a commercial position to embark in the insurance profession. His first venture was as a solicitor for the Northwestern Mutual Life, where his early success won him a partnership in the general agency for the State. Here his remarkable results as a State agent brought him and his work to the attention of officers of other life companies, and the New York Life appointed him its agency director in Baltimore.

Maryland was then divided into three agencies, but Mr. Wallis' agency wrote more business than the New York Life had secured from the entire State in any previous year. Some time after this Mr. Wallis was offered and accepted the New York City general agency of the Home Life. During his connection with this company he made a record that still challenges attention in a field where news records are constantly supplanting old ones. In six years he raised the income of the agency from $200,000 to about $2,500,000. In recognition of his successful management he was given, in addition, the supervision of some eleven Eastern States.

After a year's voluntary retirement from the insurance arena, the urge of the profession was too strong and the call of the game too insistent for him to remain longer on the outside. He returned to the insurance field as general agent for the Fidelity Mutual Life in New York City.

The present flourishing condition of the New York agency, at the very apex of the Fidelity agencies, is the best concrete evidence of this manager's signal ability both as an executive and as an underwriter.

He is ready and incisive talker, whose addresses to the agents have borne appreciable results. A man of large experience, he is a master of the technique of life insurance in all its details. His ready smile, his pleasing personality, his gracious kindness impress the stranger no less than his host of friends and acquaintances.

Business and the things of business, it may be readily inferred, could not limit the pulsing vitality of such a dynamic personality. Mr. Wallis is profoundly interested in religion and religious work, and is an untiring worker in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, of which he is an elder. He was one of the committee who secured the service of the Rev. J. H. Jowett for his church. He is vice-president of the Presbyterian Brotherhood of the churches of New York, of which organization he was president for three years; treasurer of the Home Missions of New York, and president of the Men's Bible Class of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. He is also a director of the Kentucky Society of New York, a member of the Chamber of Commerce of this city and has served on some of the Mayor's committees.

FOLLOWING THE FLAG.

Edward Moseley, one of the young men from this city in the last draft of 41 men sent to Camp Taylor, has been promoted to a Corporal. He was a High School boy who distinguished himself in athletics and oratory and later went to the State University and had some military training there. He is a son of Postmaster and Mrs. J. E. Moseley and is a splendid young man and soldier.

Carroll Blakemore of Camp Shelby, Hattisburg, Miss., is in the city for a visit to his parents and other friends for a few days. He is looking fine and says he enjoys the life. He is in the Mounted Police Department.

Edward Breathitt, of the aviation service, is here on a brief visit to his parents, Judge and Mrs. Jaffes Breathitt.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE.

There will be a patriotic service for colored men of the coming draft call held at Freeman's Chapel Methodist church Sunday afternoon. A visiting preacher Rev. J. H. Crooks, will preach an appropriate sermon.

"OVER THE TOP"

the way they are now. If the fuse took a notion to burn too quickly they generally buried the bomb maker next day. So making bombs could not be called a "cushy" or safe job.

After making several bombs the professor instructs the platoon in throwing them. He takes a "jam tin" from the fire step, trembling a little, because it is nervous work, especially when new at it, lights the fuse on his striker. The fuse begins to "sizz" and sputter and a spiral of smoke, like that from a smoldering cigar, rises from it. The platoon splits in two and ducks around the traverse nearest to them. They don't like the looks and sound of the burning fuse. When that fuse begins to smoke and "sizz" you want to say good-by to it as soon as possible, so Tommy with all his might chucks it over the top and crouches against the parapet, waiting for the explosion.

Lots of times in bombing the "jam tin" would be picked up by the Germans, before it exploded, and thrown back at Tommy with dire results.

After a lot of men went West in this manner an order was issued, reading something like this:

"To all ranks in the British army: After lighting the fuse and before throwing the jam-tin bomb, count slowly one! two! three!"

This in order to give the fuse time enough to burn down, so that the bomb would explode before the Germans could throw it back.

Tommy read the order—he reads them all, but after he ignited the fuse and it began to smoke—orders were forgotten, and away she went in record time and back she came to the further discomfort of the thrower.

Then another order was issued to count, "one hundred! two hundred! three hundred!" But Tommy didn't care if the order read to count up to a thousand by quarters, he was going to get rid of that "jam tin," because from experience he had learned not to trust it.

When the powers that be realized that they could not change Tommy they decided to change the type of bomb and did so—substituting the "hair brush," the "cricket ball," and later the Mills bomb.

The standard bomb used in the British army is the "Mills." It is about the shape and size of a large lemon. Although not actually a lemon, Fritz insists that it is; perhaps he judges it by the havoc caused by its explosion. The Mills bomb is made of steel, the outside of which is corrugated into 48 small squares, which, upon the explosion of the bomb, scatter in a wide area, wounding or killing any Fritz who is unfortunate enough to be hit by one of the flying fragments.

Although a very destructive and efficient bomb the "Mills" has the confidence of the thrower, in that he knows it will not explode until released from his grip.

It is a mechanical device, with a lever, fitted into a slot at the top, which extends half way around the circumference and is held in place at the bottom by a fixing pin. In this pin there is a small metal ring, for the purpose of extracting the pin when ready to throw.

You do not throw a bomb the way a baseball is thrown, because, when in a narrow trench, your hand is liable to strike against the parapet, traverse or parapet, and then down goes the bomb, and in a couple of seconds or so, up goes Tommy.

In throwing the bomb and lever are grasped in the right hand, the left foot is advanced, knee stiff, about one and a half its length to the front, while the right leg, knee bent, is carried slightly to the right. The left arm is extended at an angle of 45 degrees, pointing in the direction the bomb is to be thrown. This position is similar to that of shot putting, only that the right arm is extended downward. Then you hurl the bomb from you with an overhead bowling motion, the same as in cricket, throwing it fairly high in the air, this in order to give the fuse a chance to burn down so that when the bomb lands, it immediately explodes and gives the Germans no time to scamper out of its range or to return it.

As the bomb leaves your hand, the lever, by means of a spring, is projected into the air and falls harmlessly to the ground a few feet in front of the bomber.

When the lever flies off it releases a strong spring, which forces the firing pin into a percussion cap. This ignites the fuse, which burns down and sets off the detonator, charged with fulminate of mercury, which explodes the main charge of ammonal.

The average British soldier is not an expert at throwing; it is a new game to him, therefore the Canadians and Americans, who have played baseball from the kindergarten up, take naturally to bomb throwing and excel in this act. A six-foot English bomber will stand in awe of silence when he sees a little five-foot Canadian Canadian outdistance his throw by several yards. I have read a few war stories of bombing where baseball pitchers curved their bombs when throwing them, but a pitcher who can do this would make "Christy" Mathewson look like a piker, and is losing valuable time playing in the European War bush league, when he would be able to set the "big league" on fire.

We had a cushy time while at this school. In fact, to us it was a regular vacation, and we were very sorry when one morning the adjutant ordered us to report at headquarters for transportation and ration to return to our units up the line.

Arriving at our section, the boys once again tendered us the glad mitt, but looked askance at us out of the corners of their eyes. They could not conceive, as they expressed it, how a man could be such a blinking idiot as to join the Salside club. I was beginning to feel sorry that I had become a member of said club, and my life to me appeared doubly precious.

Now that I was a sure-enough bomber I was praying for peace and hoping that my services as such would not be required.

LAST BUNCH MAY BE FIRST OVER

MAY BE ASSIGNED TO SOME OF THE EARLY SAILING CON-TINGENTS.

Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., March 16.—There is a great possibility that all drafted men who have recently reported for military duty at the camp here on the last 30 per cent., and those that are yet to come will see France ahead of the Eighty-fourth division.

This indication became known when it was learned that none of the men who recently have reported to the camp will be transferred to the Eighty-fourth division, but will continue in the 159th depot brigade until they are ready for sailing, when they will very likely be sent to some other unit which is preparing for the journey.

This information while not coming from the headquarters, was admitted in authoritative sources throughout the camp.

That this policy has been laid down is apparent, inasmuch as many unit commanders knowing of certain men in the draft they wanted for their branch of the service, attempted to have them transferred from the depot brigade to their organization, but were informed that they would be used to make up replacement organizations that would be sent forward upon very short notice.

Some officers of the camp, learning of this policy have formed the opinion that there is little possibility of the division moving from the camp as a division for many months. Some even predict that it will be nearly fall before there is a large movement from the camp.

The training of the men is proceeding with remarkable speed. They are drilling daily like veterans and are delighted with their treatment.

Dwarf Elephants.

And so travelers' tales are, after all, true; dwarf elephants do exist in mysterious Africa. It has been reported over and over again, and as often discredited by the learned as a mere natives' tale. But now, in London, the remains of two of the pygmy elephants of the Congo are to be seen, and naturalists will have to revise their theories. Seven years ago an expedition was sent out by the Paris Museum of Natural History to the Far East to learn something definite about the reputed aquatic elephants. A herd was seen, but the animals vanished so rapidly into the waters of Lake Leopold II that no report could be made of them, and once more the story was scouted. Even in the absorption of war this disclosure of a fragment of the unknown is curiously interesting. Will Africa never cease to yield up things "monstrous and new?" Flaubert would now have something to add to the wealth of Africa, "ostriches, giraffes, hippopotami, negroes and powdered gold," which he so delighted in.—Christian Science Monitor.

Does Not Know the Boy.

Cardinal Newman, while familiar with the life and thought of the university man, admits his failure to know the boy. Out of the mouth of Charles Redding's father he extracts the confession that "there is no telling what is in a boy's heart. He may look as open and happy as usual, and be as kind and attentive, when there is a great deal wrong going on within."
